

The New Sales Culture

This 'Authentic Selling' program is designed to assist you change your sales culture for the better.

Why do we need to change our sales culture?

The act of buying has changed dramatically, and our sales culture needs to adapt.

We need to ensure that we have a solid process to use and that there is uniformity across sales people.

We need to engage more effectively with our customers in a way they want to engage with us.

Our customers should be able to depend on us, especially as they try to navigate a confusing new world awash with more challenges, more information and more options.

What do we need to do?

We recognise that we need to:

- Implement a program that will enable us to create and transition to a more viable sales culture across our organisation.
- Create a culture where our primary focus is on driving value for our customers by leveraging insight and creatively innovating.
- Enhance our ability to challenge and lead our customers to help them find ways to improve their business.
- Create more sustainable business and selling practices that continually grow revenue and profitability in both good and difficult times.

How will this program help?

This 'Authentic Selling' program will assist sales team to develop this sales culture.

It is focused on assisting salespeople, sales support staff and sales management to adopt a winning sales process supported by proven selling principles and values. It is designed to help you develop a common selling language enabling you to grow a culture that will enhance sales productivity and create maximum value for our customers and our people.
